That wonderful year, we hope you'll see
The past reappear like a memory . . .
We'll show you the way it used to be!

REMEMBER

THAT WONDERFUL YEAR

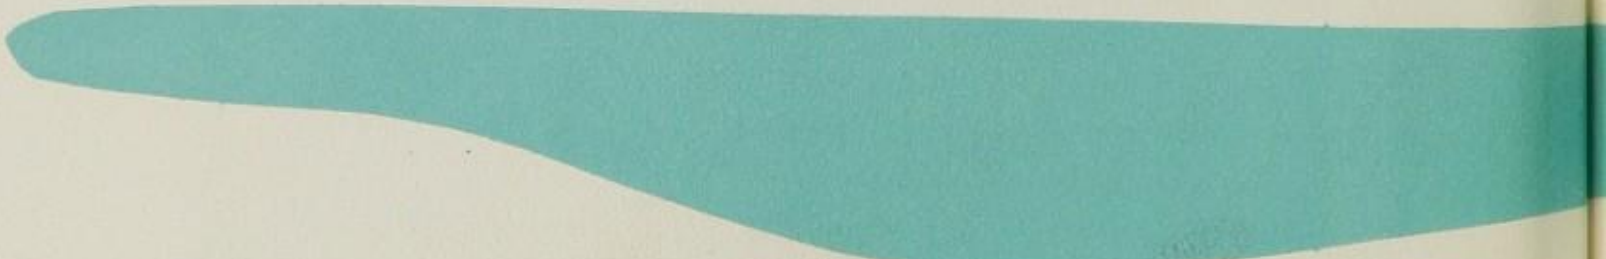

First day confusion, my but it's funny
First week woes, the loss of your money.
Books to be bought, and some to be read
Words to be written, words to be said
The slow settling down
Your French teacher's frown
Pencil and paper and ink to be used
The sound of laughter when you're amused
Burning up that midnight oil
That one subject for which you toil
The homework; to do it or not
Tests, and the formulas that you forgot
Clubs and fun and all of your friends
Anxiously waiting until the week ends
Crushed in passing, painfully limping
Picture taking, smiling, and primping
Senior day, dressed like a fool,
Acting so silly right there in school.
The dance; such a wonderful time
End-term parties that are really sublime.
Caps and gowns, so gravely black
Feeling as though you deserve a plaque
Slowly marching along the aisle
Forcing the pride into a smile
And, then, maybe a tear
That's what is meant by "That Wonderful Year"

June, 1963

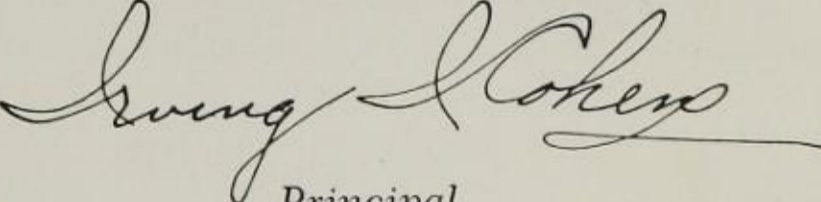

Dear Graduates,

Exactly five score years ago, at two widely separated parts of our country, momentous decisions were forged with blood and steel. Although this nation remained "dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal," the fight for true universal freedom has never been completed, even in our own country.

The coming years may well determine whether mankind will achieve this goal, or will perish. We have tried to instill in you a true love for your fellow man, a sincere desire to work unselfishly for the benefit of all humanity. We hope that you will always strive to build the better world for which all peoples have yearned for centuries.

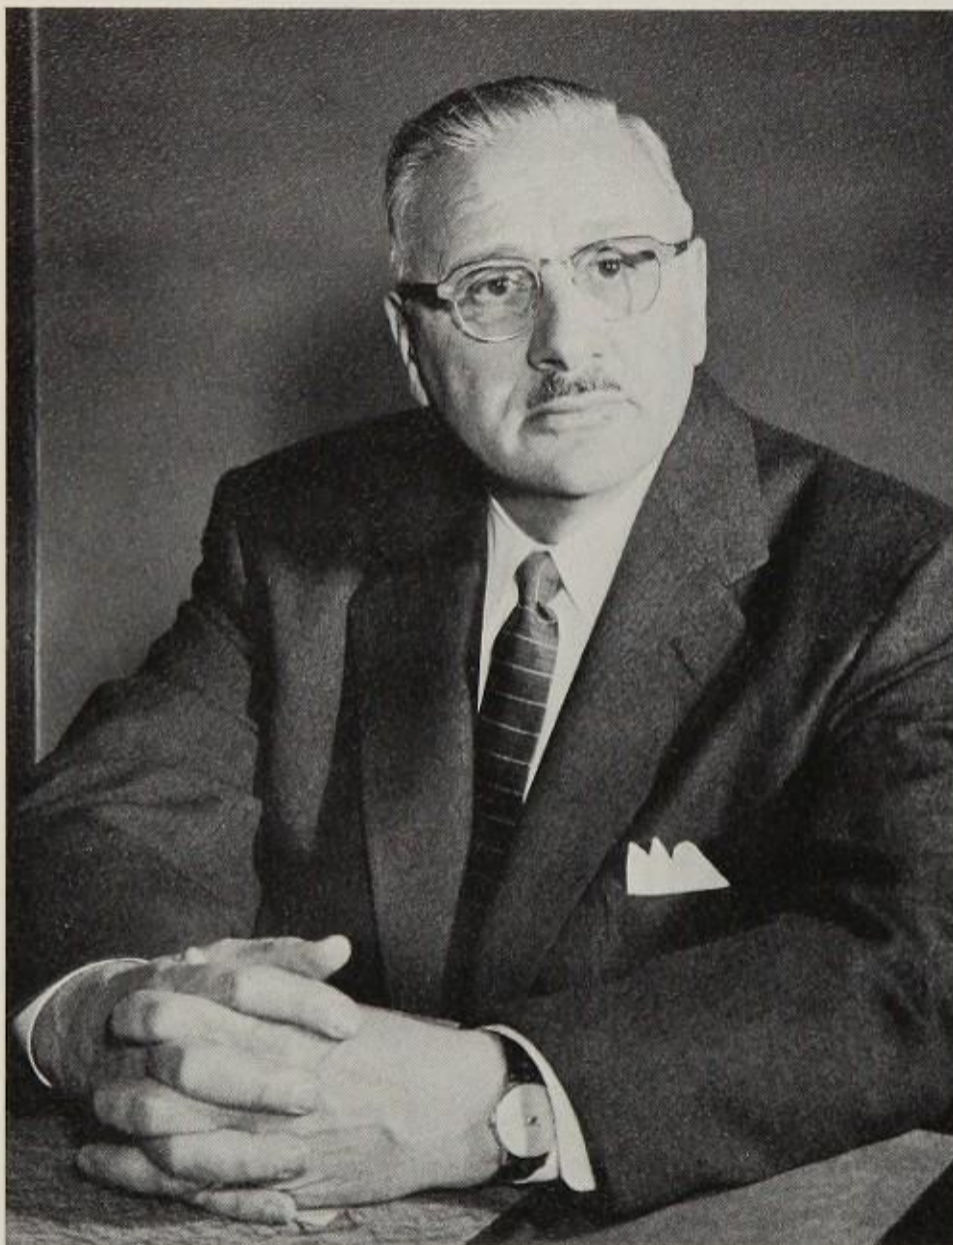

Our best wishes go with you.

Sincerely,

Principal

Our Principal

SAMUEL LEVINE

Dedication

Rarely does one man become identified with the history of a public institution. Such a man is Mr. Sam Levine, who retired from service to Thomas Jefferson High School on January 31, 1963. For 39 years, as teacher, adviser, friend, and organizer, Mr. Levine epitomized devotion to Jefferson. It was much more than a school building to him; he was immeasurably more than a member of its faculty and staff to the multitude of students and teachers he affected. There is hardly an area of school activity he did not influence through direct participation or wise counsel. Mr. Levine thought creatively about the present and future lives of each succeeding class. The Alumni Association, Career Day, individual program planning, Honor School, Arista, Kagathos, Service Council have flourished under his mentorship guidance.

Of equal importance with his contributions to the day-by-day functioning of the school was the atmosphere his vibrant personality engendered. The "Jefferson Spirit" exists as a tangible tone and mood in the classrooms and hallways primarily because Sam Levine fostered it during his tenure.

The retirement of Mr. Levine leaves a void in our school. However, he has bequeathed monuments that will endure to Jeffersonians of future generations. Though they may never know him, or he them, the memory and influence of his untiring and affectionate efforts will live on. It is equally certain that thoughts of the corridors, classrooms, students, faculty, and administration will be close to the heart of Sam Levine for many long and happy years to come.

SOLILOQUY

Thomas Jefferson spoke and his words became a part of forever. I can hear the echoes of his voice . . . as he speaks to a student in the hall of "his" school . . .

"All men are created equal . . ."

"So why does that teacher think I'm dumb?"

". . . governments are instituted among men . . ."

"Why do women think they run things?"

". . . deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed . . ."

"How come the students got no say?"

". . . though the will of the majority is in all cases to prevail . . ."

"So how come they didn't lower the passing grade on the geometry regents?"

". . . that will to be rightful, must be reasonable . . ."

"Teachers are always right, but never reasonable."

". . . the minority possess their equal rights . . ."

"Are you kiddn' Tommie, why can't we smoke in lavatories?"

". . . which equal laws must protect . . ."

"Right! The student patrol should tip us off when a teacher is coming."

". . . and to violate which would be oppression : . ."

"You can't imagine how oppressed we are."

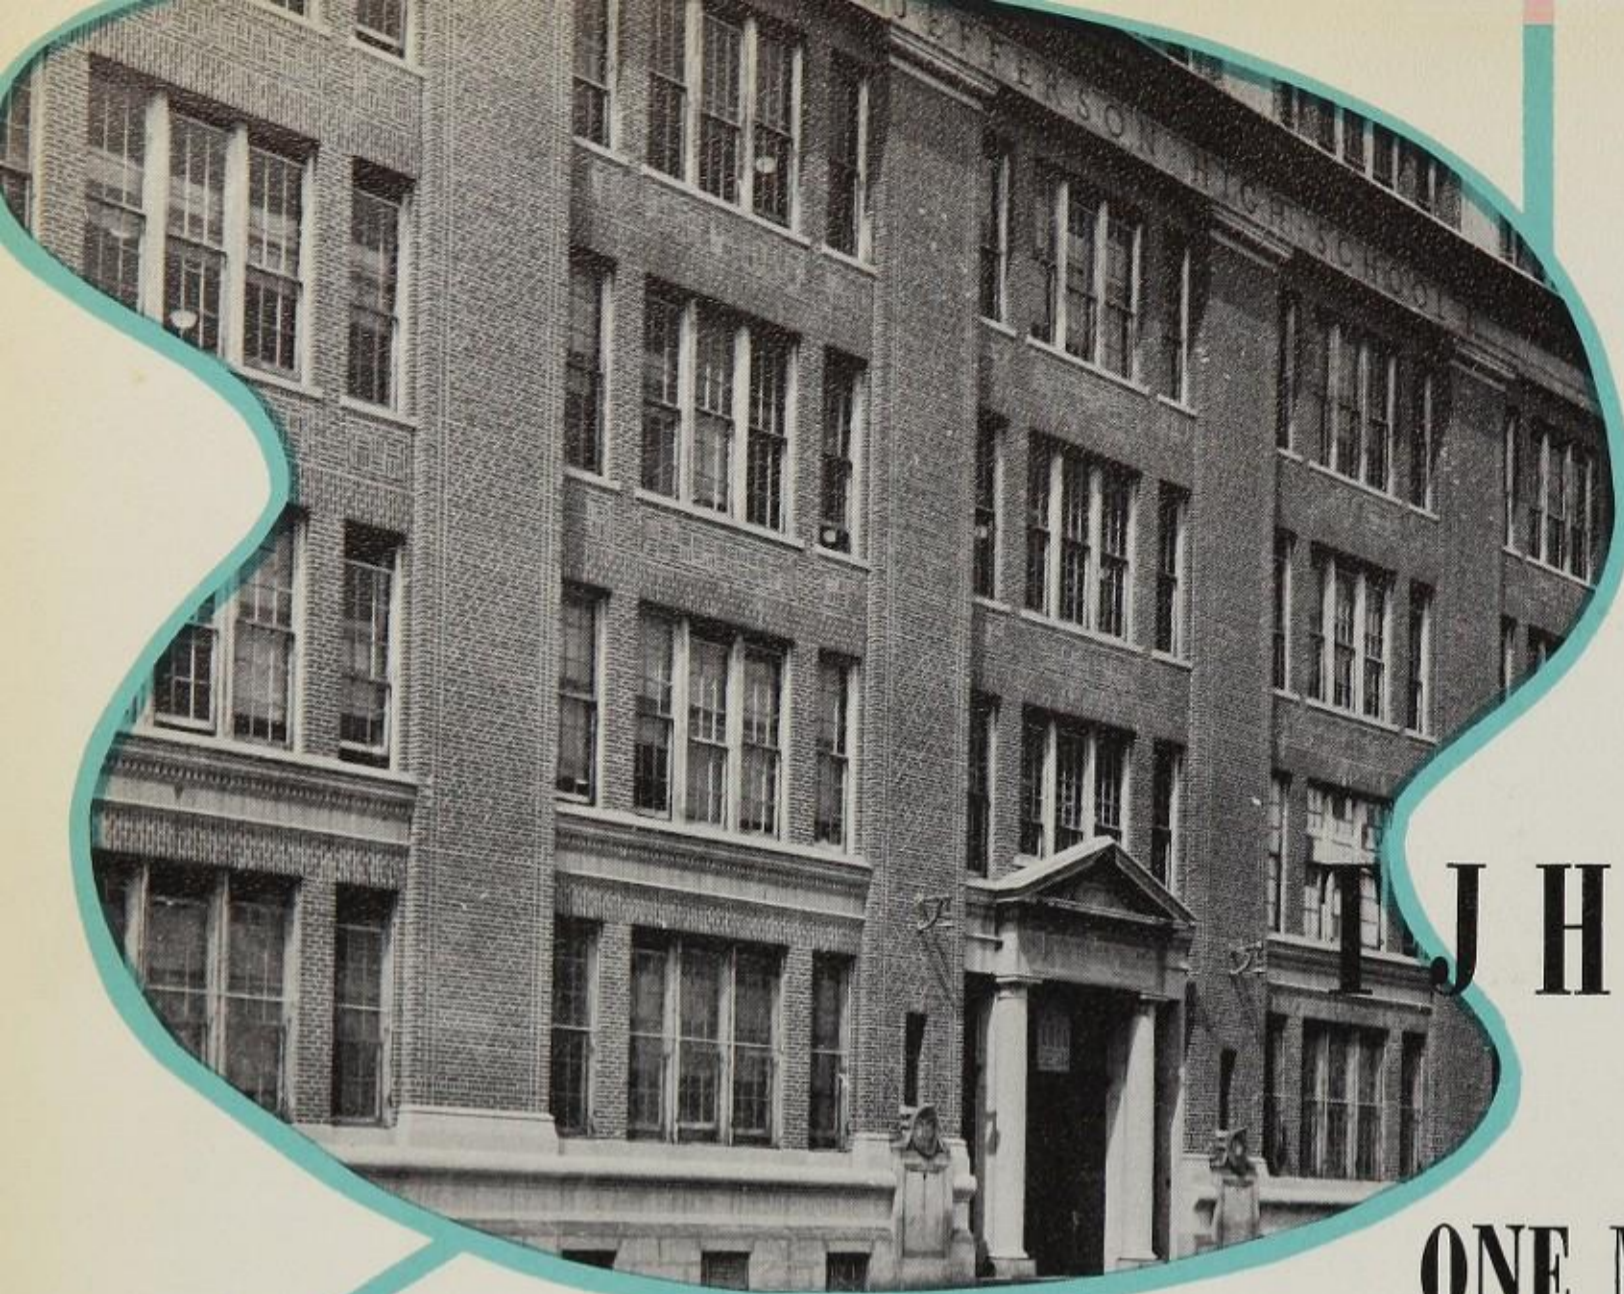

". . . Let reverence for the laws, fewer school hours, less exams and higher marks . . ."

"Don't get carried away now."

". . . become the political religion of the nation."

"Say, that's very good. Can I quote you on that one, Mr. Jefferson?"

TJHS

ONE MORNING

You are only four letters, more or less,
 So don't ever try again to impress me
 With all your filmy talk of blue and orange banners,
 Alumni dinners and Alma Mater song.
 For all along I have known this
 As I watch you waking very early every morning
 When still the day is weak and deeply dark,
 And you are free to bear no fear or feeling of suspicion
 That you are being seen
 By one who knows you as you really are
 And ever really mean.

How repulsively cold you can feel to me, TJHS,
 Just shortly after daybreak
 (But then I won't suppose you will ever be in really the right mood
 For receiving visitors at that unearthly early hour)
 So I only come in quickly, quietly
 (And if it should be windy on the streets,
 I admit I am slightly tired from half-heartedly wrestling,
 Pleading almost,
 With one of your huge brown, brass doors to allow me in)
 And I barely make a sound rushing through your drowsy lobby,
 Just brushing off and under the mass of heavy early morning darkness
 Which surrounds you,
 And because it is far too soon or sensible for the lockerroom below
 To be lit or even open
 I must stand
 Off to a side somewhere.
 Near an incoming haze of streetlamp light mixed with a few cloudy bits of filtered sunlit sky

Which are already falling underneath and high above
A dozing outside door.
And there I wait,
Without a single change of temper, tone, or movement in me
To see you soon or late begin to wake.

So believe in me, TJHS,
As I tell you
You are far from bright or pleasing to the sight
When you do unmistakably start to make your first attempt to rise
Out of darkness into daylight
By engaging in that long and dreamy
Somewhat-stretching, somewhat-curling, turning action of your bumpy, sleeping legs,
An action so almost gearlike in its softly unassuming poses in turn,
It itself, inaugurates that whole nearly useless process
of getting up, once more.

Perhaps this long awaited glimpse of waking—
Which now is coming, is coming now, I feel it—
Happens through
The flicking of a restless light switch along a first floor corridor
Or a change of tune in the ceaseless click, click, clicking of the teacher's timeclock
Or a new misplaced, unaccounted footstep moving down down and further on down an adjoining hallway
Or, possibly,
An extra outside entrance door, in full measure, whisking open . . .

And then a surge of sudden loud, immutable noise flashes
Out of the flush and swish of more and more misplaced footsteps
And huge brown, brassy doors all convulsively whisking outward open
And this sensation, at last arriving, is the irrevocable and final blow of waking up . . .

And you, TJHS, still naked in your hallway nightdress must now spring from bed

Ahead to unleash a host of other locked and sleeping doorways, classrooms, sinkrooms, officerooms
(For the full commanding call of morning is here upon you)
And waving a hysterical, hoarse "good morning"
You must fling yourself and everything in and of you back and forth.
Until even you yourself, are open wide and wider,
To widely let the foaming flood of morning names and noises
Come through and crash in every hall and staircase . . .

And afterwards,
When all this is started up and going on
I turn
And slowly move away to go about affairs, unnoticed
For all at once it seems so harshly clear,
Against this influx of full-strength sunlight, sound, and sight,
That my precious early morning is all but ended, fallen, lost
While the one you proudly worship
Has loudly just begun.

Those Wonderful Years

When you first entered Jefferson as a sophomore, you were awed by the sheer size of the building and your primary concern the first few days was finding your way around. I believe we all experienced the usual beginners' unsure and sometimes bungling nervousness. You recall asking trustingly of a senior, "Where is the cafeteria?" and the resulting fifteen minutes spent searching diligently, but fruitlessly, around the basement for the cafeteria is still a somewhat painful memory.

As you walk through the halls, you are certain that everyone is staring at you because your greenness is obvious to all. You spend those first few months anxiously trying to do your best and satisfy all these teachers who demand so much of you, and who seem to delight in the thought of working you to death. (There are times when you become certain that Shakespeare himself would flunk English 3.)

In your desire to do well and in your efforts to become familiar with the strange surroundings, you soon find that the year has passed and that you have somehow managed to survive—not much the worse for wear at that.

As you enter your junior year, you assume a more confident attitude, for you are no longer considered the lowliest form of life whose prime reason for existence is to allow upper classmen (and teachers too, it seems to you) to tread upon you as they please. By now you have amassed considerable knowledge as to how to get along in Jefferson. For example, it is now commonplace to walk up the down staircase and vice versa, and you have come to realize that the official period provides an ideal time in which to do all your homework. Furthermore, that paper bag lying on the lunchroom floor has now become someone else's refuse and you have "no idea how it got there."

You are now part of Jefferson—in more ways than one. For by your second year, you have made your contribution to the powers that be—of a wallet, a textbook, a handbag, a pen, and so on. In addition, you are participating in some of the extra-curricular activities—and thus, are savoring more than just the academic life of the school.

By now too, you have become acquainted with the usual routine of the school, which runs roughly from pre-midterms, to midterms, to pre-uniforms, to uniforms, to finals.

And finally, at long last, it comes—senior year. It is at this time that you attain your full measure of worldliness. You delight in looking down upon the incoming sophs, and in some ways you even feel superior to the new teachers. After all, who is better acquainted with the school, you or they?

By the senior year, many of you take more interest in extra-curricular activities than you do in your subject classes. For after two long, hard years of study, you believe you should be able to “loaf” for a term or two. The result of such an attitude is that while the harassed teacher attempts to capture the seniors’ interest, you are trying vainly to look alert—well, if not alert—at least, awake.

Routine activities, such as doing homework and coming to class every day, have become an insult to your intelligence.

The time has arrived too when Jefferson no longer seems tremendous to you—if anything it is confining. Now, as you walk through the corridors, you meet scores of people whom you know.

You are caught up in the whirl of senior activities—jewelry, picture-taking, senior council, senior prom—and almost before you realize it, the time has passed when you are referred to as a student of Jefferson; you have joined the ranks of the alumni.

CHEMISTRY

No other graduating class of seniors, before or after us will ever boast of having had the opportunity of education in the highest atmosphere possible. I am referring to a select and rather noteworthy group of individuals who received their instruction on the roof of Thomas Jefferson High School.

Although I and my friends had enrolled in Chemistry I, there were numerous times when we sincerely doubted we were in the right class. The reason for all the confusion was progress. For the good of future students, we, the gullible, defenseless members of a group seeking wisdom as to why Na and Cl (with proper valence numbers, please!) form salt, were evacuated from the fifth floor so that it could be modernized and made more "chemical" for our followers.

And so, one sunny, breezy, cool morning we found ourselves climbing up the never before trodden stairs that would lead us to nature and all its elements. What class was that? Ah yes, chemistry. You see, we had to be reminded of it every so often, like every time we got up to the deserted seatless roof.

To make this rather "cool classroom" usable, several problems had to be overcome. To list them would be more efficient but very unfair to those of you who enjoy reading about the sufferings of others. Providing ourselves with chairs wasn't too difficult, although many an angry student ate his lunch standing up, while the puzzled headmaster of the lunchroom searched handbags for the missing benches.

Let it not be said that we were unresourceful! Our blackboard consisted of a green door, unhinged from some undisclosed place, and leaning precariously against the low side of the building. We shielded ourselves from the sun as best as possible, which wasn't good enough usually, and so every time the ol' sun decided to play hide and seek, we moved around with him. Every three minutes or so, we would rise like one convulsive army and turn benches another way, and every two minutes the wind would skip by and carry along any bit of paper it could grab, for instance, homework, tests

Our teacher could never quite impress on us the fact that just because we were outdoor didn't mean we were having a picnic. After all, how could you blame us for taking out our sardine sandwiches when the fresh air made us so ravenous? Why shouldn't we open our cans of Super Coola and take a swig now and then?

Several of us also brought transistor radios to school (radio reception is excellent at heights) and while our teacher painstakingly explained some of Newton's theories, we completely disregarded him in favor of our favorite disc jockey program. One time the teacher did manage to gain our attention by mentioning the word "diamond." Our aroused interest was quickly quenched, however, when he said this precious stone, "a girl's best friend," was really only a form of coal. We really didn't want to be enlightened in quite this way.

on the roof

Gosh, I almost forgot our daily visitors. It seems we had forced several birds out of their "penthouse apartment" for 40 minutes each day, and they were putting up quite a squawk about this disturbance. As soon as we arrived on the roof, these animals would fly overhead in a circular fashion while one or two brave birds would occasionally swoop down after their prey. This proved to be quite an interesting distraction and they surely had a bigger audience than the teacher.

Whatever it was, it was never quite chemistry.

We did manage to learn enough earth science to make us eligible for the regents, and we did get an awful lot of terrific physical education, but never quite chemistry.

To say we minded would be to lie. In most cases it was interesting, appetizing, and a marvelous way of getting to know each other better. To keep ourselves busy as the teacher jabbered on, we counted the turns made by the weather vane, and shot rubber bands down into the street. Curies we would never be. Music majors, 5 pounds heavier, sunburned—yes, but never antiseptic H_2O s or girls who sported hard carbon extract rather than sparkling engagement rings. It wasn't that we had no interest in chemistry, I guess it was just that there were more interesting things to be interested in.

Listen, Jeffersonians, and I shall discuss,
Of the morning ride of our pioneer bus.
7 o'clock in the morning,
When many lights are out,
A black and white bus will come along
Running the same old route.

You'll say to a friend, "If the bus doesn't come,
I think I'll go back to sleep."
But from a distance you can hear that sound,
Of a bus that goes "Beep."

One beep if it's late, two beeps if it's not,
Jefferson students come from all around,
Crowding together in one big clot.

The busdriver wishes you good morning with glee,
And you'll nod your head in misery
For you know that when you reach Jefferson,
You'll be getting a history test,
And you watched Ben Casey last night
Instead of studying and doing what's best.

Meanwhile, impatient to mount and ride,
The Jefferson students will push with heavy stride.
Suddenly the busdriver will shout, "Move to the rear!"
And being pushed through the windows,
Is all you can bear.

Getting off the bus, you'll feel anger and remorse
You'll say, "I'll never go through all this again."
But you'll find your mind is the boss.
For the next morning when 7 o'clock is near,
The Jeffersonians will be crowding around,
And you will be standing there.

Last Will and Testament

We, loyal Jeffersonians, being of sounder mind and body due to our stay at Thomas Jefferson High School, hereby bequeath to all those who shall populate the school after us, those commodities and activities which are inherent to the functioning of a happy student and a good school.

We leave to them the right to a student government and we leave all the benefits derived thereof: a bookstore, a newspaper, a magazine, athletic teams of all types, and the power to have a say in school affairs.

We leave all the noise and fun of a lunchroom brimming with food and friends. We leave the crowded hallways, the swinging doors, the Relieving Ring of the passing bell. True, we leave bumps and bangs and bruises, but those will be healed by the soft sounded laughter.

We leave to them a freedom of self-expression through organizations and clubs: S.C.A.I., Portrait Club, Jeffersonian, Liberty Bell, Kagathos, Math Team and many others sponsored by the various departments.

We leave the many duties which must be performed and we leave the societies which will honor them for their fine work; Arista and Service Council.

We leave to them the library and the teachers who will provide the knowledge and the know-how to transform them into well-versed and thinking individuals.

But, most of all, we leave to them a trust. A trust that they will work to maintain and strengthen the high scholastic and social level within the school. We leave to them Thomas Jefferson High School to keep for their own and we leave Jefferson to them to be held and protected in trust for the many other young people who will inherit it after them.

To the teachers we leave the following:

- To Mr. Beckman we leave an extra time out
- To Mr. Bord we leave an attentive class
- To Mr. Bialy we leave a bagel
- To Mr. Bromberg we leave dangling participles
- To Mr. I. Cohen we leave the social seniors
- To Dominic we leave a self-service elevator
- To Mr. Fenton we leave a ghost story
- To Mr. Finklestein we leave his dream of having a first-rate football team
- To Mr. Goldman we leave a kiss
- To Harry, our policeman, we leave program cards
- To Mr. Lapidus we leave a package of throat tranquilizers
- To Mr. J. Levine we leave "the sound of music"
- To Mr. Sol Levine we leave an obituary and an "explain fully"
- To Mr. Mallow we leave turquoise, orange, and yellow program cards
- To Miss Margolin we leave six major service credits
- To Mrs. Ochs we leave "legitimate" doctors' notes
- To Mr. Pfeffer we leave a "Happy Tish'bov"
- To Mr. Polner we leave a "strictly factual" assignment
- To Miss Schmidt we leave all the extra $11.75's
- To Miss Wirth we leave new sneakers
- To Mr. Yakowenko we leave a recorded announcement
- To Mrs. Zack we leave Kala Kagatha
- To Mr. Glass we leave all the rejected stories and our warmest thanks
- To Mrs. Fox we leave our sincere appreciation for advising us in our term of graduation
- To the Freshmen we leave the cafeteria chow mein, the sour milk, and the noise
- To the Juniors we leave the very difficult task of writing a will that's better than the last
- Thomas Jefferson High School we leave.

The above documents having been duly censored, scrutinized, and notarized, we as members of the graduating class hereby affix our signatures—

THAT FAMOUS NIGHT

'Twas the night before Regents
I was very upset
For I knew the things I studied,
I surely would forget.

My heart was pounding very fast
I could hear it beating, kerplunk,
After all those years of studying
It was possible that I might flunk.

All crazy things went through my mind
I saw without a doubt,
Paul Revere riding through the town
Screaming, "English I can do without."

I tried very hard to calm my nerves
By telling myself not to fret,
I took two or three aspirins
To prevent becoming a nervous wreck.

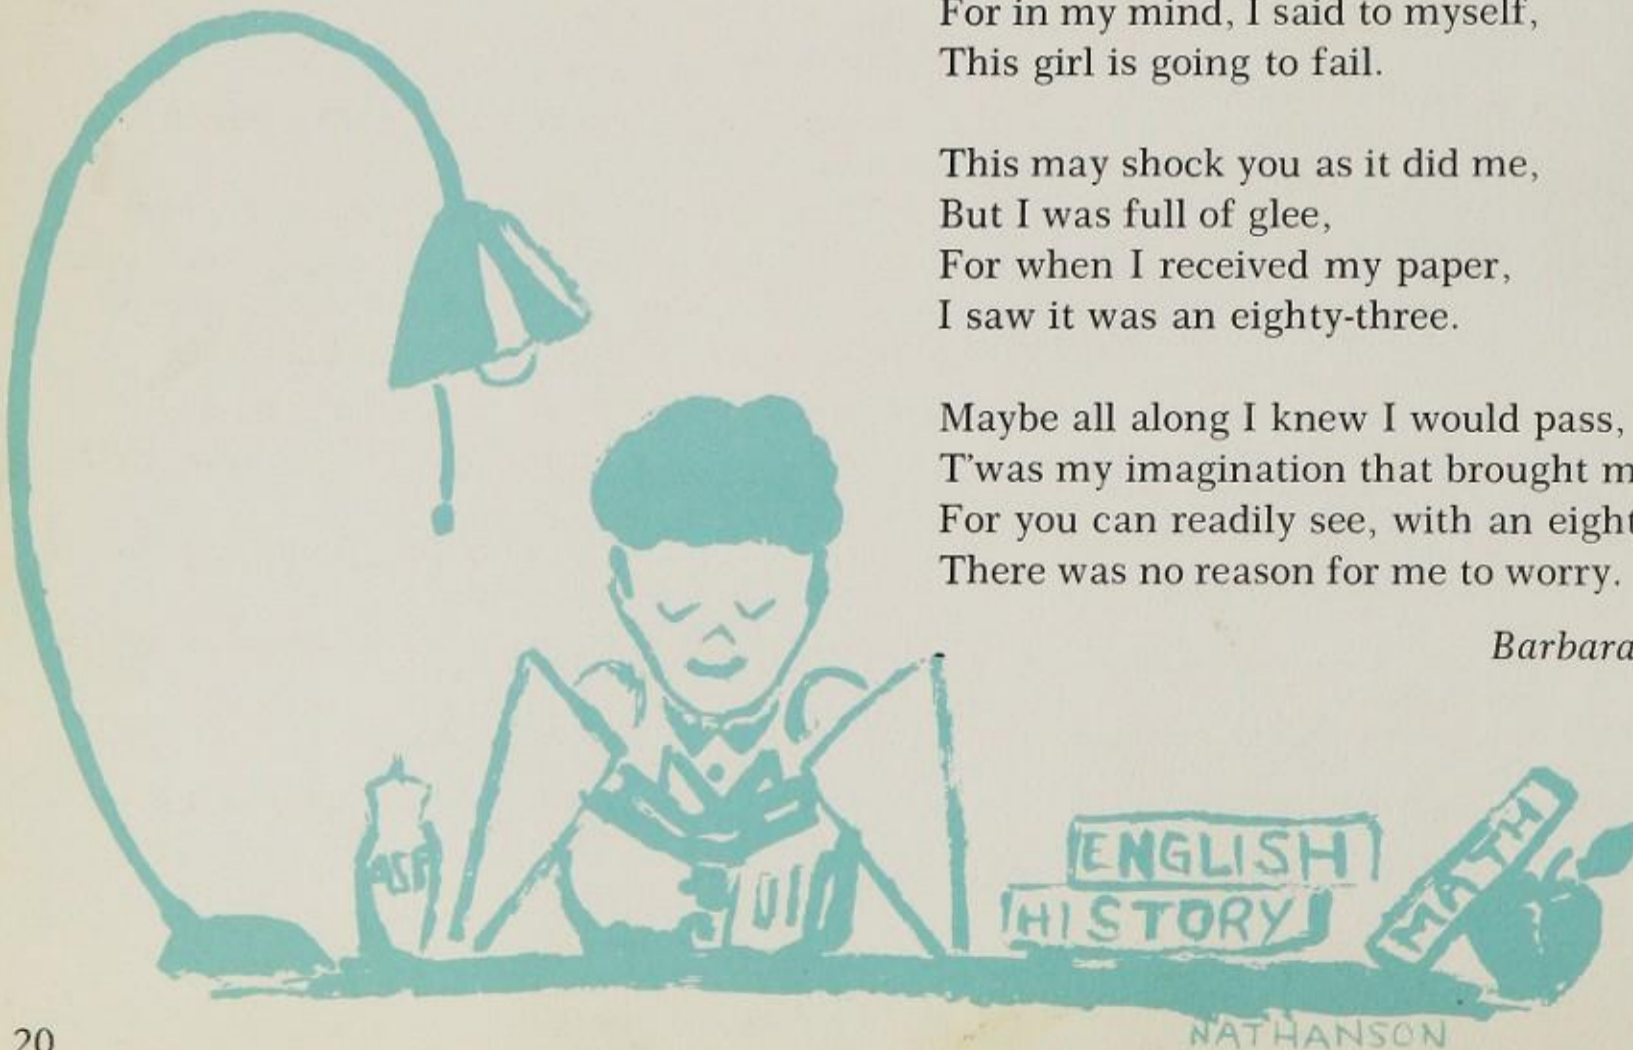

D-Day was here for me
And although outside it was sunny and bright,
My head was feeling heavy
Instead of feeling light.

I walked in the room slowly
Everything was looking so pale,
For in my mind, I said to myself,
This girl is going to fail.

This may shock you as it did me,
But I was full of glee,
For when I received my paper,
I saw it was an eighty-three.

Maybe all along I knew I would pass,
'Twas my imagination that brought me a flurry
For you can readily see, with an eighty-three
There was no reason for me to worry.

We sang these songs

"ONCE IN A WHILE" I come to school.
 "TELL ME WHY" I failed the test.
 "SCHOOL IS OUT" Yippee!!!
 I wore an "ITSY, BITSY, TINY, YELLOW POLKA DOT BIKINI" on senior day.
 "HE'S GONE" to the dean's office.
 My prom dress is made of "CHANTILLY LACE"
 "BIG GIRLS DON'T CRY" except when they receive their report cards.
 "PEPINO THE ITALIAN MOUSE" was in the girls gym.
 "I WANT TO BE BOBBY'S GIRL" so I can cheat when tests come.
 I wish we could do the "LIMBO ROCK" in school.
 You'll find my "COLORING BOOK" in my Eco. section.
 You received the '90' on the Regents because "YOU CHEATED"
 "WHAT KIND OF FOOL AM I" who always did my homework.
 "DON'T HANG UP" until you give me the answers to the homework.
 How can I "GET A JOB" if I don't graduate?

G. O. COUNCIL

The 79th G.O. Council, led by its President Gil Puchalsky, sought to continue the great job of representing the student population. The members, who are the leaders of our school, try to satisfy the needs and desires of the students.

Although they are under the supervision of faculty advisors, the G.O. Council controls and passes judgment on many of the school's activities. Among the graduating Seniors are Gil Puchalsky, President of G.O., Ted Feinberg, President of the A.M. session, Fran Silverman, President of Service Council, Joel Litman, Sports Editor of Liberty Bell, Susan Kaminowitz, January Senior Class President, Carolyn Johnson, Girl leader of Arista, Mildred Perez, Captain of the Student Patrol, Lane Frish, Captain of Boosters, Joan Fogel, Chancellor of Kagothos, Jerry Bornstein, President of S.C.A.I., and several other term representatives. Those who have served on the G.O. Council realize its tremendous responsibility. They only hope that in years to come the succeeding members realize this fact and strive to make the Jefferson G.O. the best possible.

ARISTA

January

Arista, Jefferson's honor society, stands for scholarship, character, and service. These principles are put to practical use in both the school and the community.

Mrs. Marion Zack leads the group in executing its many functions. Of these, the most important is the tutoring service through which many students receive help with their studies.

This year, the group received the honor of being accepted into the National Arista Society.

Special thanks are due to this term's officers: Jason Bonderoff, Boy Leader; Carolyn Johnson, Girl Leader; Joan Fogel, Recording Secretary; Marion Nathanson, Corresponding Secretary; and Eric Bienstock, Treasurer, without all of whom this year's activities could not have been successfully carried out.

SERVICE COUNCIL

High on the list of the top school clubs is Service Council. Founded in 1929, this outstanding organization has contributed widely to the development and functioning of our school. Its 70 members were elected to Service Council because they had at least 6 major service credits. Some of the important tasks performed by Service Council are seeing that the students get school jobs and proper credit for their work, supervising the selection of outstanding seniors, and, along with Arista, helping to support a Korean child. Miss Margolin, our able advisor, is assisted by Fran Silverman as President, Carole Zamft as Vice President, Zelda Klein as Secretary, and Ellen Rogoff and Merle Stein as Treasurer and Scribe, respectively. We are all very grateful to Service Council for the many ways in which it has benefited our school.

STUDENT PATROL

"Organization," as defined by Webster, is the true meaning of the Student Patrol. The Student Patrol is not a loose organization, but a strong invulnerable body. Under the adroit guidance of Mr. Lapidus, the Student Patrol members police the traffic in the corridors for their fellow Jeffersonians during the change of classes. The Student Patrol is one of the most important student organizations that give service to the school, for its members are the few that protect us, which many students do not realize. The Student Patrol keeps the school clear of unwanted loiterers, who might be a menace or a nuisance.

Without the keen assistance of the Senior Captains Steven Gebler, Herbert Dank, Maurice Watson, Jay Letterman, Jeffery Schneider, Henry Plotkin, William Bell, Mel Lichtenstein, Oliver Howell, and Mildred Perez helping Mr. Lapidus, the Student Patrol would only be a name and not the efficient body it is.

Steven Gebler

S C A I

Do the corridors reverberate with the voices of young folksong enthusiasts? Is frictional heat being radiated from the third floor, as two opposites clash in discussion? Are two young men waiting to greet a speaker who has been addressing a room full of students for the past fifteen minutes? Are hundreds of Jeffersonians filling the auditorium to hear a debate between two important political leaders? If so, S.C.A.I. must be in session.

S.C.A.I.—pronounced SKY and short for Student Council Against Intolerance is the history department's discussion club, under the direction of Mr. Murray Polner. It is here that problems are presented to interested students who, in turn, present their ideas, beliefs, and opinions to the others. Some of the meetings held were concerned with censorship in school libraries, the role of the student in national affairs, and the prayer ban in school. There was also an extremely interesting program in which Senator Javits and Representative Multer were guest speakers.

Through the work of S.C.A.I. the young adults of our school learn to understand other people and their thoughts. Some topics prove to be stimulating and controversial and result in heated argument. Very often, through these disagreements, a greater understanding of world problems can be realized.

The officers of S.C.A.I., Jerrold Bornstein, President; Joan Becker, Vice-President; and Maryann Raskin, secretary, are all seniors. Other seniors who have been very active in the organization are: Laury Abrams, James Deutsch, Janet Levant, Paul Millman, Alexander Orloff, Patrick Redko, Steven Stock, and Kalman Tobias.

INSIDE THE JEFFERSONIAN

by

The Editors of the JEFFERSONIAN Literary Staff

Future poets, ambitious essayists, and hopeful short story writers of Jefferson all find a vehicle for their talents in our semi-annual literary publication, THE JEFFERSONIAN. Miss Rose Port is the faculty adviser and Alexander Orloff is the current editor-in-chief.

Let's take an essay submitted by Arty Writer, who has hopefully presented his piece, "The Curse of the Cafeteria," to the JEFFERSONIAN. The essay is initially processed by the managing staff. Its job is to "enter" all material. "Entering" consists of recording the title and author of the submitted manuscript and attaching a "cover sheet." On this form the staff will write its critical comments. Sara Sank presently supervises this activity.

The "Curse of the Cafeteria" is then given to Steven Stork, the executive editor. He is responsible for circulating the manuscripts among staff members, who write such things as "Accept" or "Reject" on the cover sheets. A "Reject," following our policy of using only constructive criticism, may be accompanied by such remarks as "miserably written, no plot and a poor ending."

Let's assume that the manuscript has been accepted. This means it has received a number of "Accepts" and the approval of the editorial board. The production staff, directed by Barbara Miller, now receives the essay and types three copies for the use of the copy and art staffs.

Our copy staff is made up of dictionaries, pencils, erasers, and a few slightly illiterate students. This group, headed by Helen Pozdniakoff, makes all the necessary and sometimes unnecessary corrections.

Eventually, the stories, essays and poems are sent to the printer along with the art work. The art staff, under the guidance of Mrs. Irene Berkson, is responsible for the illustration and layout of the magazine. The art editor this term is Howard Roberts.

Our work doesn't end here. There are proofs to correct, dummies to plan, and complimentary copies to exchange with other schools.

All these functions are the backdrop to the (we hope) absorbing magazine that makes its appearance each term when school is drawing to a close and leisure activities begin to beckon.

PROGRAM COMMITTEE

At the beginning and end of each term, a diligent group of people known as the Program Committee attempts to create programs for the students of Thomas Jefferson High School. For this heroic and troublesome task, these valiant souls receive only threats, insults, complaints, and more work (also sodas, pizza, and apples).

The center of activity for these people is the library. As you enter (if you can get past the crowd of complaining students and the police force of PC members at the door) you are greeted by a flurry of excitement. People are either running around, or writing or filing feverishly. All this is done amid shouts of, "Add three to Eco. 101!" "Run this up to 204 and hurry!" (they never do anything without hurrying) "Someone run out for sodas!" "I'm starved!" and the ever popular "I'm going crazy!"

It all starts out as a simple race against time. The task is to have all the programs made up and ready for issuance when the term begins. Since there is little more than a week to accomplish this, errors are unavoidable. Students get subjects they never asked for and lack subjects they need. Some have three study periods in a row. Others have three classes the same period. Program change slips pour in, changes are made, and here's where the trouble starts.

Classes must be equalized because the teacher of Bio 213 refuses to teach a class consisting of 63 students, while the teacher of Bio 216 is required to teach only four students at a time. Equalization leads to more errors, which necessitate more changes, which involve another equalization, which leads to still more errors, more changes, and so forth. No wonder Mr. Mallow, head of the committee, and his confused cohorts are ready to massacre the defenseless student who suddenly decides to switch from Creative Writing to Journalism.

Two weeks and ten nervous breakdowns after the term begins, the work is just about finished. Loose ends are tied up, the library opens for business, and the Program Committee leaves the scene to await a new term.

HOSTESS CLUB

The girls of the Hostess Club, under the expert direction of Mrs. Florence McLellen, officiate at the various school functions held during the year, where the girls assigned have the task of serving refreshments to the guests.

While serving, all members must wear the traditional uniforms of white blouse, black skirt, and emblem bearing the school colors and the name "Hostess Club."

Hostess Club officers for 1962-1963 include: Fran Gottfried, President; Joan Elias, Vice President; and secretaries, Sandi Levy and Harriet Eiseman.

The various school clubs and organizations of Jefferson are indebted to the Hostess Club for helping to make their socials and teas a success.

Joan Elias

One event during our stay in Jefferson particularly makes the Kag girls honored to be members of this organization. What I speak of is the Kagathos project of visiting and entertaining the disabled children at the St. Giles Hospital. If anything could warm a person's heart, it was the joy these children expressed at our arrival and the sorrow they displayed when we departed. Each and every one of us was proud. We were proud of what we had accomplished. We were proud that we had been the ones to do it, and, what's more, we were even prouder of our fellow Kagathos members.

KAGATHOS

Kagathos, the honor society of the Girls' Health Education Department, is much more than an honor society. It is an organization dedicated to the service of the school and community. The members of Kagathos are girls who have industriously worked to make our book drives, linen drives and canned food drives successful. These are the girls who have met our tests in health, character, physical efficiency, scholarship and leadership, and these are the students who have lived up to the Kagathos ideals of a rounded life, health, knowledge, service, and faith.

Upon leaving Thomas Jefferson and Kagathos, all the members join in reciting our creed, "That light which has been given to us we shall pass undimmed to others."

The officers of Kagathos are Chancellor—Joan Fogel, Scribe—Olga Kwasny, and Bursar—Patricia Wank.

BOOSTERS

What is life? . . . but a collection of memories. We own nothing but the past. And at certain moments . . . these possessions are valued companions . . .

I can see the stands and the greens and browns of the field . . .

"Jefferson, Jefferson, all righty
Workin' all day and all nighty . . ."

And the beating of the crowd grows rapid as the teams take their places . . .

"We're gonna win it, all righty Fight, team, fight . . ."

I can see the girls . . . blue sweaters with orange letters and short orange skirts . . .

"All right, girls, size places
Girls, I said in lines of eight . . ."

And the pretty faces and hopeful hearts move out onto the field . . .

"Extra, extra, read all about it
Jeff's gonna win, there's no doubt about it . . ."

The ball is snapped . . . and the megaphones raised . . .

"Three cheers for the seniors on our team
They hit the line like a roller of steam . . ."

And marching feet . . . almost all together . . .

"There goes Molmod through the hole
Followed by Del Pergatorio . . ."

And the orange crepe shakers ripple in the wind . . .

"Oshman's the quarterback, Shapiro's the end
Kurtzer and Graft, like a milkshake they blend . . ."

The crowd breathes wildly with enthusiasm as the final seconds tick away . . .

"Then there's Rosa, Vega, Escalante, Tischler, Rutman too Fighting seniors for the orange and blue . . ."

The crowd swarms onto the field. The memories hover above the shouts and screams and empty stands . . . and there they shall remain . . . forever . . .

"Fighting for the orange and blue . . ."

Elaine Rubin

TWIRLERS

The drums begin to roll, and the crowds begin to cheer, as Thomas Jefferson Twirlers start marching down the field.

The Half-Time at Jefferson High is centered around a group of eleven girls, wearing orange and blue uniforms and white boots and holding in their hands their most prized possession, their baton. Each girl has come up against exhausting practices during the Spring and Summer months followed by routine everyday practices during the September term. Since they twirl only during the football season, the girls work exceedingly hard to get the best they can in the time allotted.

The twirlers are led on to the twenty-five yard line by their Captain Michele Hodes, and Co-Captains Deanna Paris and Linda Slotnick. The other Seniors on the squad include: Corrine Rachlin, Bonnie Gordon, Eileen Flaxman, Roberta Lichtman, and Randi Lash.

CHEERLEADERS

MATH TEAM

The Math Team is a group of students with interests and capabilities in the field of mathematics. They meet every day under the direction of advisor, Mr. Epsell, who discusses mathematical problems and theories with the members. The work they do covers some higher mathematics and methods of solving problems found in competition.

Five times a term the team meets with other schools in scholastic competition. From these meets, the high scoring team of the city is determined. The individual high scorer of Thomas Jefferson High School receives a book from the school.

The uniqueness of the team makes membership an honorable and challenging experience.

Rhoda Sonnes

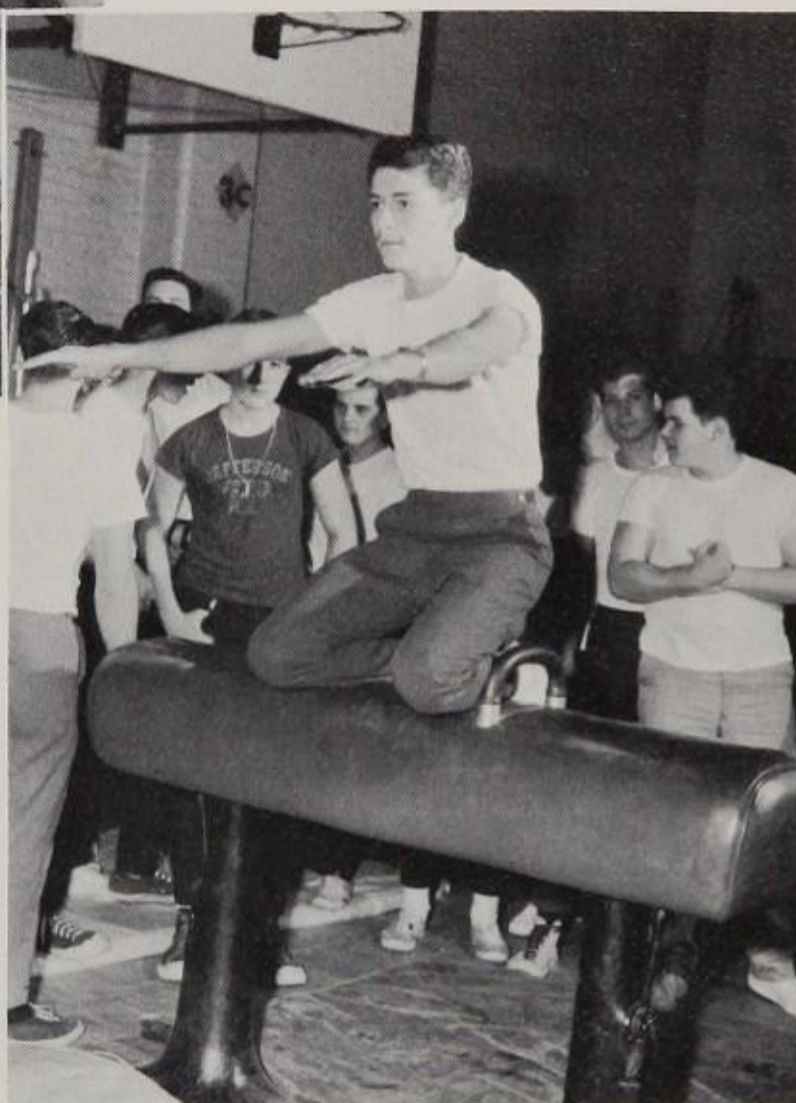

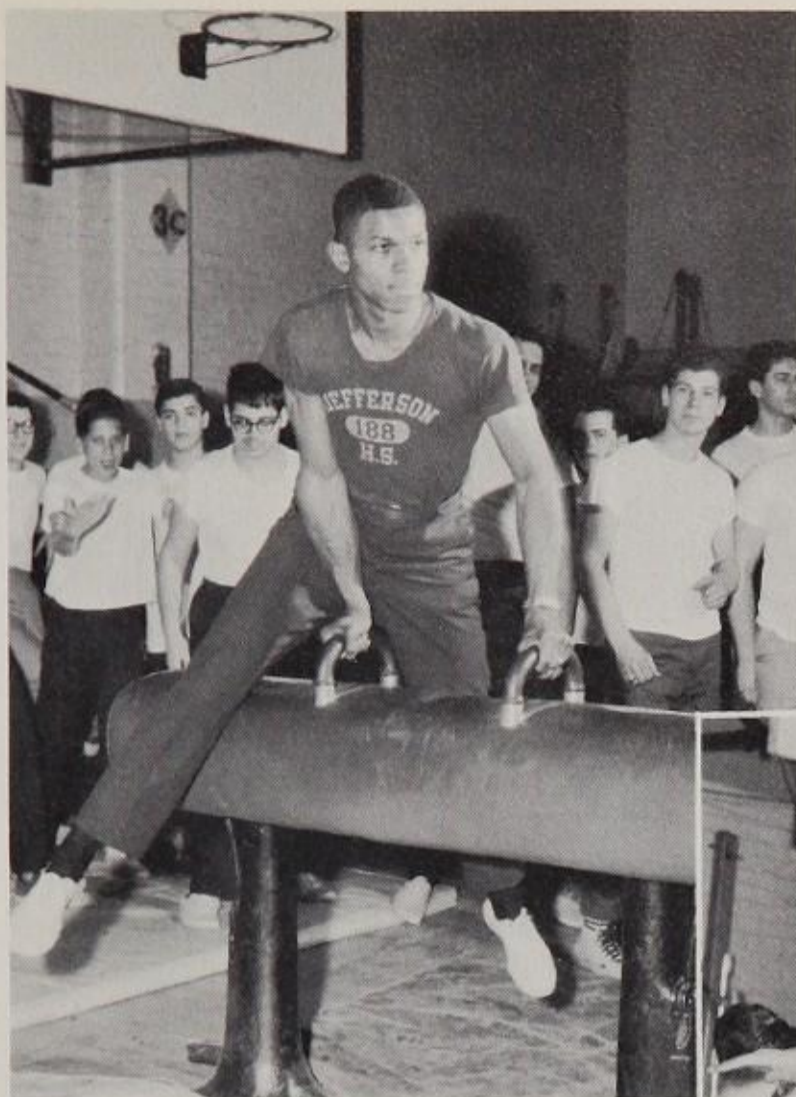

The cheerleaders of Thomas Jefferson High School always have stood and always will stand out above the cheerleaders of other schools. For many it is a difficult task to tell exactly what it is that the cheerleaders possess that is so outstanding. Among their many qualities the greatest of them all is their ability to work together. Every year the squad accomplishes its main goal—to arouse school spirit among the Jeffersonians. Through the expert leadership of their captain, Cheryl Mitchell and two co-captains, Terry Yodoff and Bonnie Greenblatt, they deserve the admiration of all who know them. I am sure that the graduating girls: Eileen Gemorah, Karen Prince, Loretta Novack, Cynthia Goldberg, Barbara Schneider, and Sydelle Jacobson, will never forget the Thomas Jefferson Cheerleaders.

FOOTBALL

Looking back on the scholastic trail there will always remain a warm spot in our hearts for sports, especially FOOTBALL.

Walking past Jeff field every day, from early Spring to the late days in November, you are very apt to see our enthusiastic football team as they dash out of the locker room on their way to a lengthy and strenuous practice. In their midst walks the coach, Moe Finkelstein. Mr. Finkelstein, along with Assistant Coach Clint Waymer, and the team's three very able captains Bobby Rutman, Mike Graff, and Stuart Aaronson, has worked tirelessly getting the boys in shape for the big fight.

Although our team for the year of 1962 has not won many championships they have nevertheless performed gallantly on the field with school spirit deep within them. Though every game was not a victory, good games were witnessed by all.

This was truly a team whose achievements cannot be measured in the scoring box alone. But we, as Jeffersonians, will always look back and remember the BIG ORANGE WAVE led by the seniors of the team, including quarterbacks: Mattie Oshman, Charles (Corky) Benesowitz; halfbacks: Alan Molmod, Donald Kurtzer, Robert Scrubb; fullback: Mike Graff (who made All City); center: Larry Tishler; guards: Bobby Rutman, George Vega, Jeffrey Kopp, Steve Pandolfo; tackles: George Rosa, Larry Proman; ends: Leslie Shapiro (who was honored by receiving the Lou Gehrig Award), Rubin Escalante, Billy Del Purgatorio, Alvin Flanzraich. Those seniors also to be given recognition for their excellent work for the team include Assistant Coaches Louis Mont, John Dirla, Robert Ragland; Manager Arturo Frizzera.

Corrine Rachlin

SWIMMING

Jefferson seniors paced the Orange Merman squad to second place with but one loss to City Champs, Brooklyn Tech. The team, under its coach Rip Goldman, finished the 1962 season with a win-loss record of 5-1 and second place in Division I in P.S.A.L. swimming.

The victories given to the Merman were from Eastern District, Hamilton, and rival Tilden High School. There were also victories over Wingate and Boys High School. The only loss was to Brooklyn Tech, which just happens to have the habit of winning City Championships.

The team was led by Captain Mel Lichtenstein, with co-captains Ken Epstein and Charlie "Kamikaze" Goldberg.

The starting free style team consisted of Mike Rosenberg, Shellie Schwartz, Don Fastman, Mike Leibowitz, and Mark Silbert. The team specialists were Len Moroff and Elliot Bentscholsky in the Breast Stroke and Ron D'Angelo and John Sachs in the Butterfly Stroke. Phil Shapass and Heywood Knopf starred in the Back Stroke. Steve Meltzer copped firsts in both the Breast Stroke and Individual Medley, while John Steifel did likewise with the Backstroke and Individual Medley events. The diving team consisted of Joe Gomez, Alan Abelowitz and Phil Zwibel.

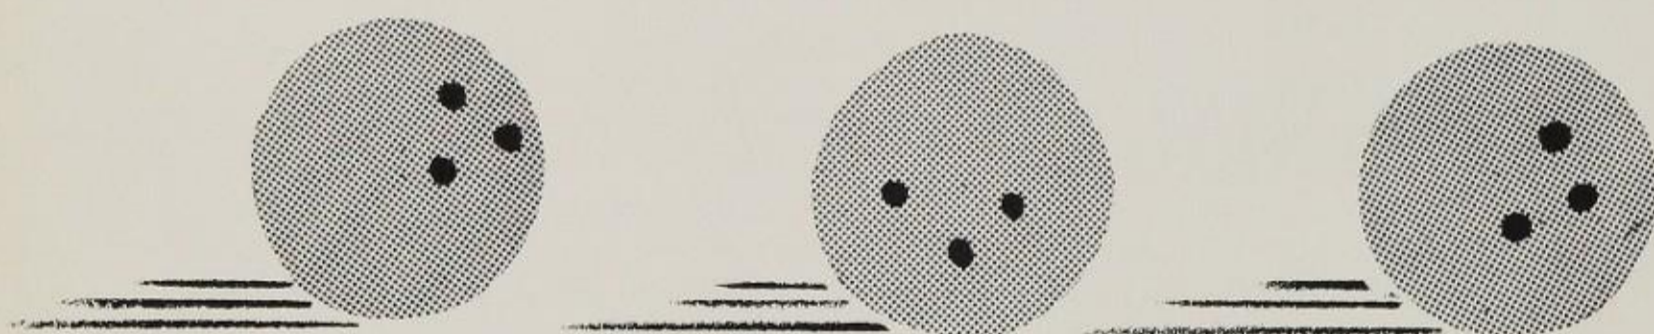

Mark Silbert will be the team's new captain for the 1963 season. The team will consist of Shellie Schwartz, John Steifel, John Sachs, Elliot Bentscholsky, Ted Weiss, Wayne Corbel, Ira Cohen, Arnie Cohen, Phil Shapass, Mike Leibowitz, Heywood Knopf and Joe Gomez.

In conclusion, the Aurora wishes to thank the graduating seniors for a great season, and we hope that next season's team will be as good as the team that is leaving us this year. To the graduating seniors, good luck in the future.

Mike Tuckman, Mike Zeide

TRACK TEAM

BOWLING TEAM

Each year the record of the bowling team of Jefferson improves greatly. At the beginning of the 1962-1963 season the same boys were on the team again. As the season progressed the four starters, Alan Cener, Russell Daversa, Jeffrey Harellick, and Vincent Maccarrone, had a chance to show their coach, Dr. Arnold Scolnick, what they could do. All four boys had scores over 200.

Highlights of the year included the game against Eli Whitney which knocked them out of the competition. Another game was against Boys High whom we beat by one point because of the excellent bowling of Jeff Harellick.

To the seniors we leave our thanks for helping the bowling team along the road to victory. We thank Joseph Appelbaum, Alan Berkowitz, Don Sobel, Alan Cener, and Jeff Harellick for their contributions to the Jefferson bowling team, and the students of Jefferson wish them luck in the future.

BASEBALL

Hit hard by graduation last year, Baseball Coach "Rip" Coleman says he will build this year's team around the three seniors and two juniors still around from last year's team and, as you will see, this is not a bad nucleus.

At the top of the list is Jamie Soldeville, a pitcher who is entering his third year on the varsity and who Coach Coleman thinks will have "his best year." Another fine player is Charlie Fassler, a reserve first baseman last year, but who, according to his coach, will be elevated to a starting role this year. A strong ball player named Sal Adragna is the third senior on this year's team. Sal is a pitcher.

Soldeville, with a 2-2 record last year, both losses close ones to Tech, was one of the PSAL's best hitters, ramming out a solid .571 batting average. Pinero hit .333 last year and collected the most hits on the team. Fassler is a good all-around ball player, Adragna has a good arm, and Rivera is a top-notch hitter and receiver.

With this nucleus and a new group of sophomores and juniors, Coach Coleman hopes to improve on last year's 4-4 record in which we came from behind to win twice.

BASKETBALL TEAM

Though the Nickelmens had, at best, a mediocre season, they nevertheless had several individuals who performed quite admirably. Led by Captain Harvey Jackson's eighteen-point season, they lost four and won eight in league play, and won three and lost two during the exhibition season.

Jackson not only was the leading scorer, but he also was among the leaders in rebounding. In this, he was considerably aided by Anthony Martin and Ken Halliburton. The former was the second highest scorer for the Orangemen, averaging eleven points per game.

The other man up forward was Arnie Weinstein who is only a junior with one more year before him. He averaged almost seven points per game and worked off the boards.

The team was rounded out by Ira Cohen, Jeff Beckman, Michael Leibowitz, Paul Daley and Sidney Stromen, in the backcourt, and Howard Gordon, Lloyd Sherman, and Joe Wilson up front.

The team's victories came at the expense of Tilden twice, Wingate, and Tech. They also played a superlative game against finalists Boys High. Their near victory in that game could have been the crowning achievement of the entire season.

Charles Fassler

TENNIS TEAM

1962 gave T.J.H.S. one of the finest tennis teams in the school's history. The "Presidents," as they're referred to, are out to avenge the two losses of last year that gave them 3rd place in the P.S.A.L. standings.

Last year's veterans, Jeff Beckman, Lenny Charnoff, Ted Feinberg, and Peter Bernstein are now holding major positions on the team. Also returning are Ira Camhi and Larry Cordova.

Jefferson's tennis team is reputed to be of high scholastic caliber, and they live up to this reputation. Jeff Beckman, Ted Feinberg, and Peter Bernstein, are members of the Honor School and Arista. Beckman is also an adept basketball player.

In pre-season play, the T.J. "Presidents" wound up in second place in the St. John's International Tournament. Beckman and Charnoff played singles, while Bernstein and Feinberg teamed up in the doubles.

DANCE CLUB

Twice each week the young and agile dancers of our school congregate in the girls' gym clad in black leotards and slippers. The first ten minutes of each period are devoted to "warm ups" which consist of all the back breaking, charlie-horse-making exercises imaginable.

Once all muscles are limber, the girls line up and spend the rest of each class practicing walking! Yes, its true. Keeping in time with Mrs. Solow, the teacher in charge, who beats a combination tamborine—bongo, dancers glide, skip, waddle and sometimes WALK straight across the floor.

The rest of the girls' dance careers at Jefferson consists of discussion once a week and (one must never forget), demonstration!

Each and every day of the term, the hardy dancers are privileged to climb onto the gym platform and show their skills to the sea of green and white below.

Several of the young ladies have had the ill fortune of looking down from our perch at the wrong time and trembling precarioulsy between a push-up and a "fall off."

The highlight of each year, however, is the Student Aid Show presented in May. Although each dance number lasts about four minutes, we begin choreography in January and don't finish perfecting until the day before the night of our performance.

Dance Class is unusual in that its members are united by a common interest in the Art; but each girl's degree of talent and creativity is not diminished by another's.

The members of dance class find friendship and fun in every experience and work together to bring enjoyment to fellow Jeffersonians. Dancers are Hedda Rosner, Barbara Schneider, Cindi Goldberg, Laurie Pellman, Peggy Friedland, Paula Meyerson, Fran Gittleson, Judy Edelstein, Penina Shaller, Susan Kohn, Diana Baum, Emily Alfonso, Sharon Steinberg, Fradell Greenberg, Terry Yodoff, and Paula Spolansky.

LEADERS

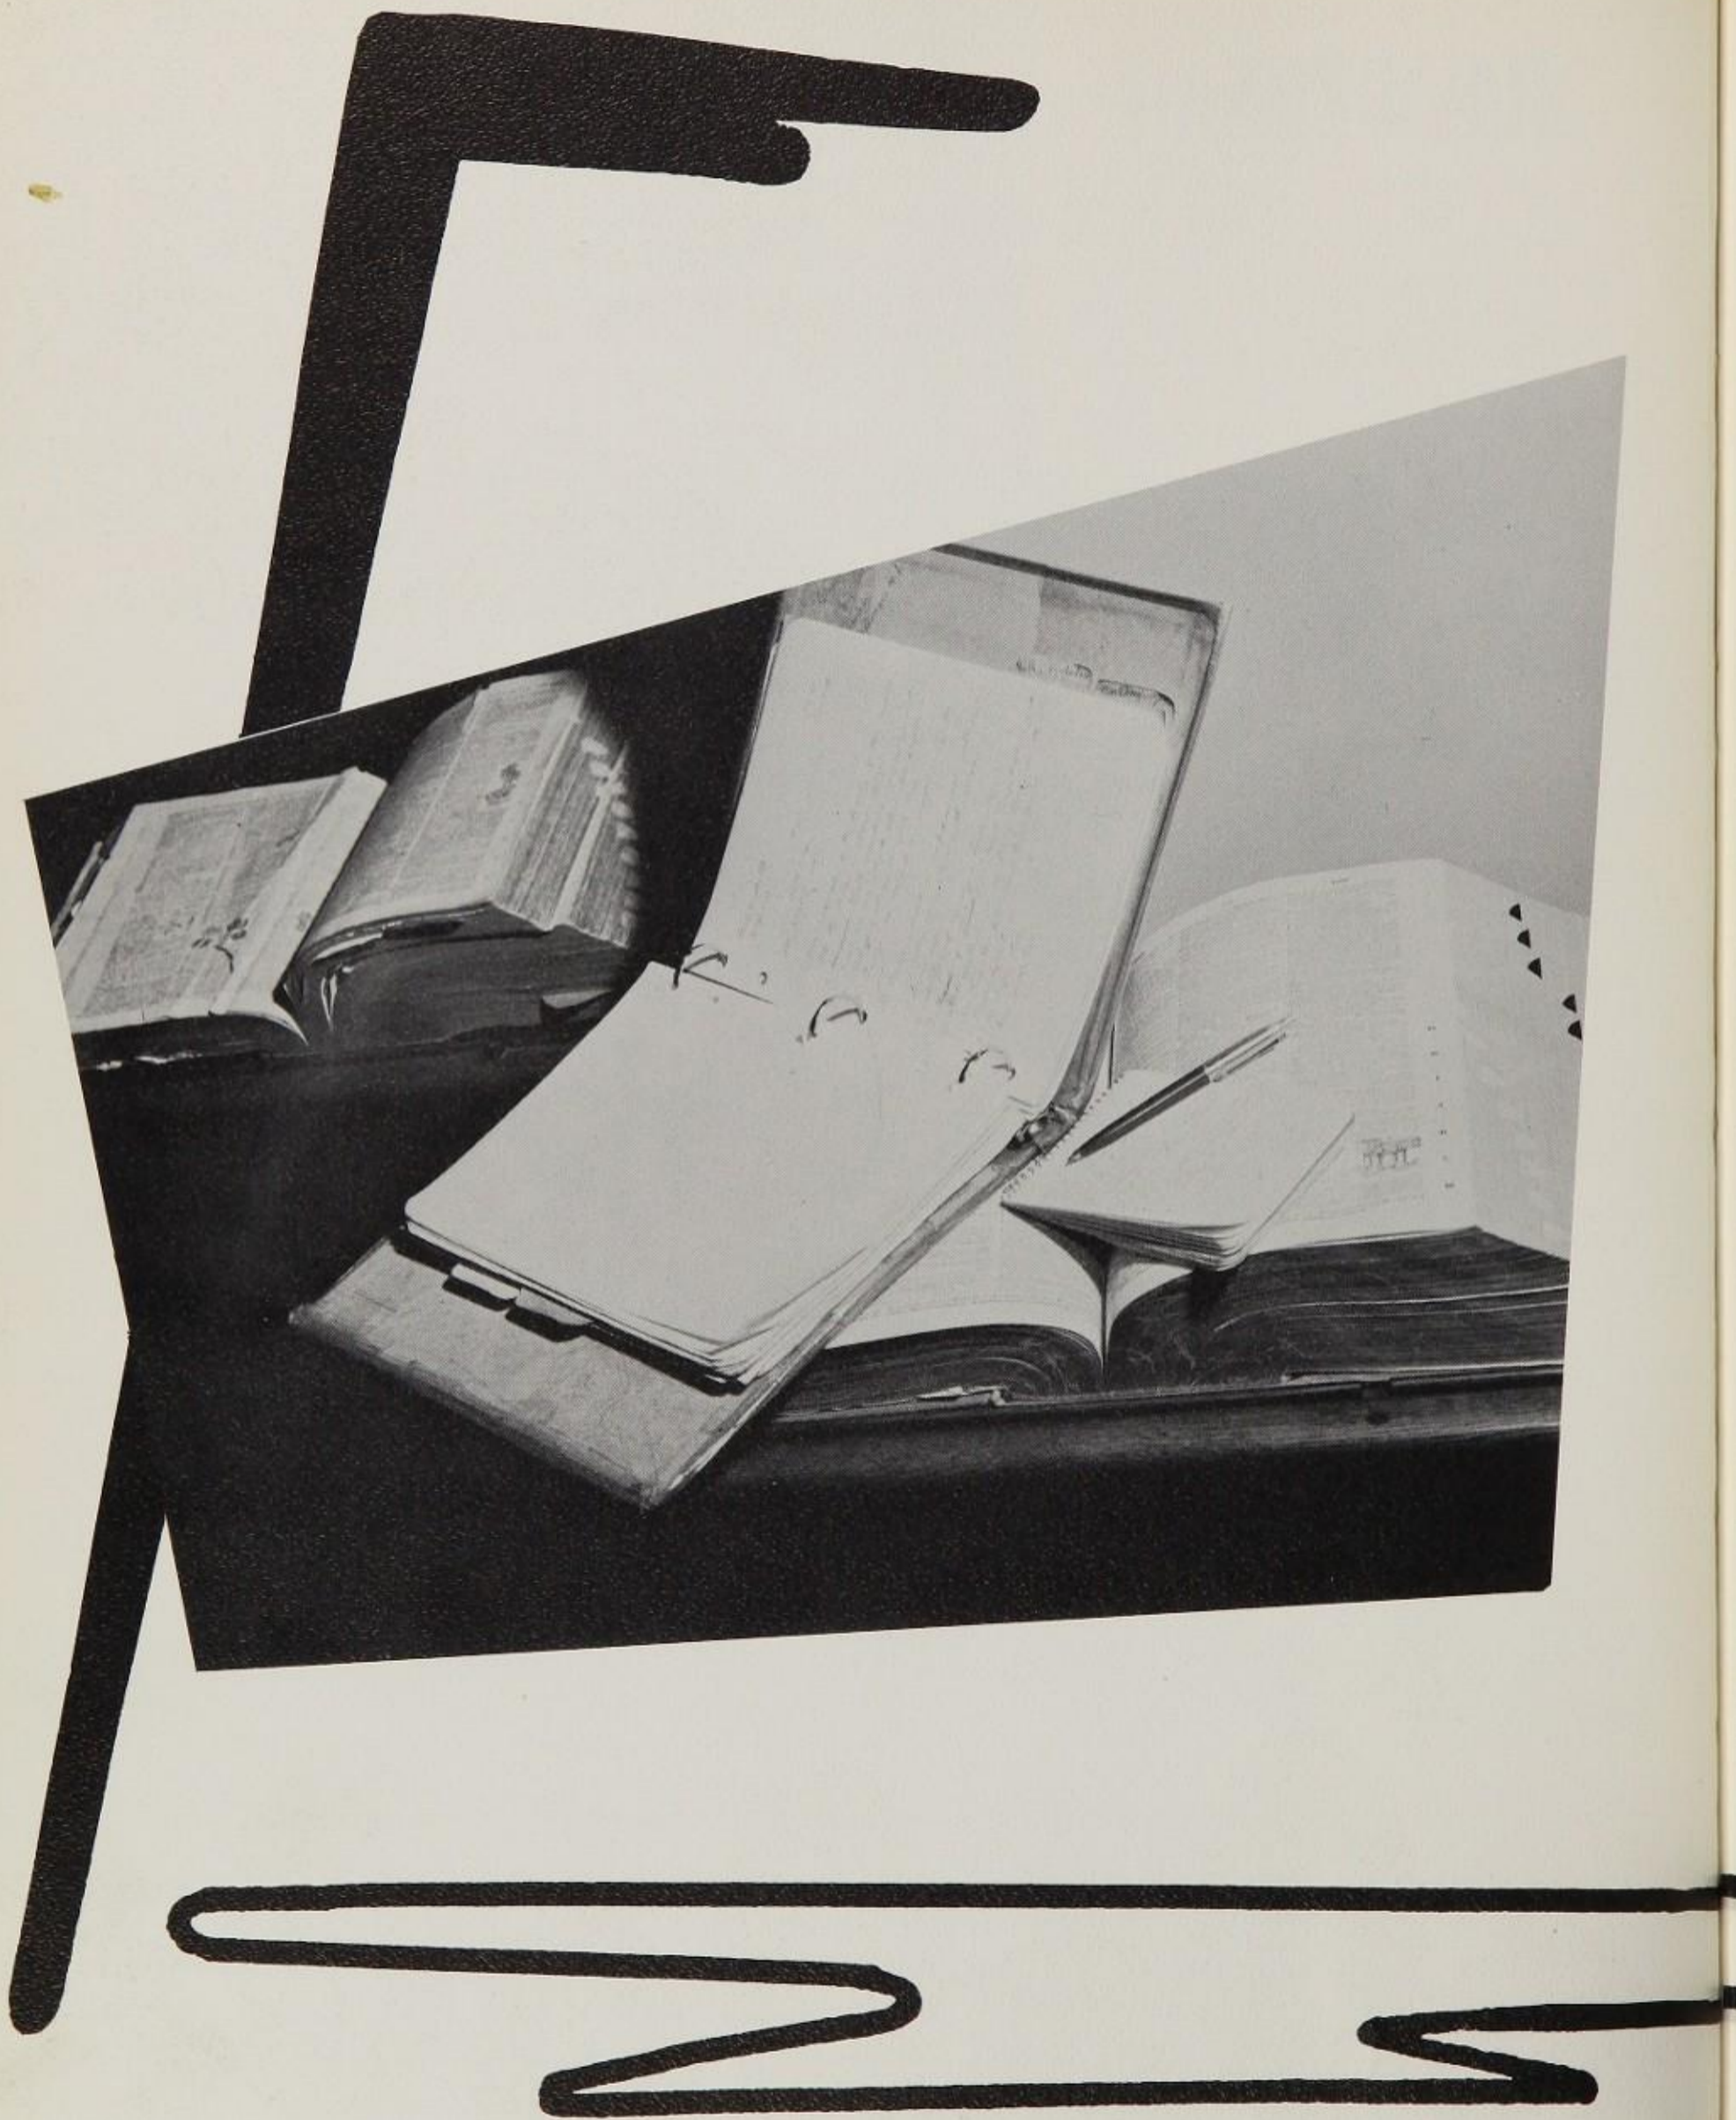

Leaders consist of a group of girls, under the direction of Mrs. Strauss, who are interested in athletics and excel in this activity. When I was a sophomore, oh so long ago, I took a test to see whether or not I could meet the requirements necessary for becoming a leader. Fortunately, I did.

We are the girls who parade around the gym in short red skirts and assist the health education teachers when they are in need of our aid, especially the very first day of the term when all the sophomores enter this "gigantic" building completely bewildered. Not more than five hundred girls stampede into the gym at one time.

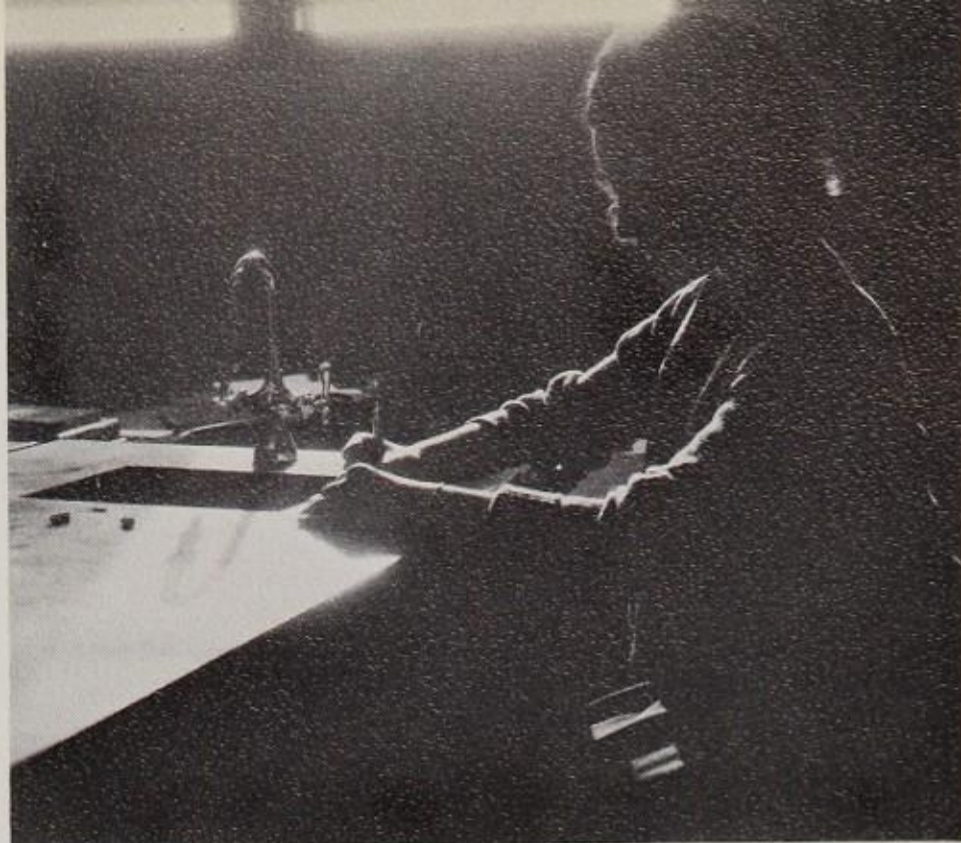

The goal of Leaders is make all the girls "physically fit". However, this is quite a task to accomplish in view of the fact that more than half of the "aging" teenagers are unable to touch their toes, let alone able to do push-ups and situps.

An attempt should be made to do these exercises in order to avoid middle-age spread. Watch those waistlines, girls!

Flee
From the blackness
Of tomorrow
And the death
Of wrinkled skin and white hair
And the curse of aging

Escape
To the brightness
Of memories
And the breath
Of golden bodies and happy eyes
And the beauty of youth

Now
Is the wonder
Of loving
And the joys
To be remembered, forever
And the grandeur of the gods

Weep
For the never
Of yesterday
And the warmth
Of closest friend and kissing kindness
No longer to be touched

Here
Is your morning
You awaken
And you sing
Of silver soul and searching heart
And all the world shall listen

Fellow Graduates:

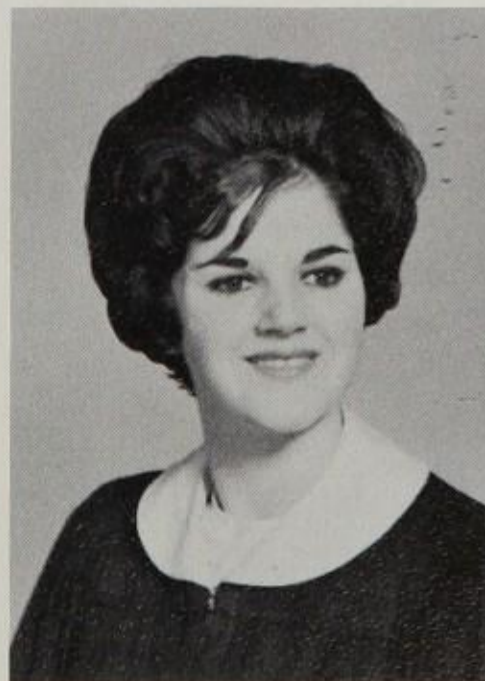

Our years here at Jefferson have come to an end, and we now find ourselves emerging from the world of adolescence—the world of partial fantasy—into the world of complete and unconcealed reality. However, we have been fortunate enough to have spent these years at an educational institution wherein the main objective has been the preparation for just this change. We can now enter into our chosen fields without having fear of subjection to any perilous revelation.

At this time I would like to take the opportunity to wish you, my fellow graduates, my sincerest best wishes for success in all your future endeavors.

CLASS TREASURERS

June

CLASS OFFICERS

ROBERT RAGLAND
President

Dear Graduates of June 1963:

I feel that each graduate of this class is fully equipped mentally, physically, and spiritually to cope with the problems of adulthood and of the world. We owe this preparedness to our parents, our teachers, and to each other.

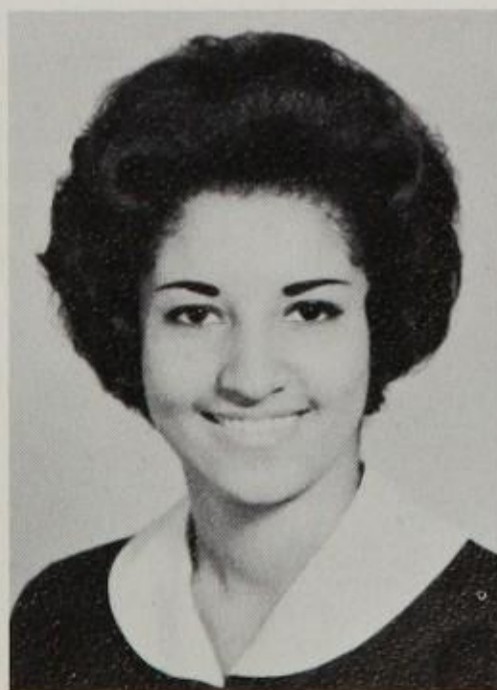

Jefferson has taught us the need for responsible citizenship in the world, and now we must strive to achieve that goal in living, side by side with those who graduated before us, and those who will graduate after us. I know that we, the Class of June 1963, are willing to take our places as responsible citizens who will work toward a better future, not just for ourselves but for our fellow Americans, and the rest of humanity as well.

This is by no means easy to do, but faith in our ability to accomplish this task is the only requirement for success. Success must be preceded by self-confidence.

Your Senior Class President,
Robert Ragland
